HISTORY

THE HISTORY OF FORT CARSON

Fort Carson was established in 1942, following Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor. The city of Colorado Springs purchased land south of the city and donated it to the War Department. Construction began immediately and the first building, the camp headquarters, was completed Jan. 31, 1942.

Camp Carson was named in honor of the legendary Army scout, Gen. Christopher "Kit" Carson, who explored much of the West in the 1800s.

At the construction's peak, nearly 11,500 workers were employed on various construction projects at the new camp. Facilities were provided for 35,173 enlisted men, 1,818 officers and 592 nurses. Nearly all of the buildings were of the mobilization type construction with wood sided exteriors. The hospital was of the semi-permanent-type concrete block and had space for 1,726 beds with an expansion capability of 2,000 beds.

The 89th Infantry Division was the first major unit to be activated at Camp Carson. During World War II, more than 100,000 Soldiers trained here. Along with three other infantry divisions - the 71st, 104th and 10th Mountain - more than 125 units were activated at Camp Carson and more than 100 others were transferred to the Mountain Post from other installations. Nurses, cooks, mule packers, tank battalions, a Greek infantry battalion, and an Italian ordnance company - literally soldiers of every type - trained at Camp Carson during the war years.

Camp Carson was also home to nearly 9,000 Axis prisoners of war - mostly Italians and Germans. The internment camp at Camp Carson opened on the first day of 1943. These POWs alleviated the manpower shortage in Colorado by doing general farm work, canning tomatoes, cutting corn and aiding in logging operations on Colorado's Western Slope.

Between 1942 and 1956, pack mules were a common sight at Camp Carson. The first shipment arrived by train from Nebraska in July, 1942. The mules were used by field artillery (pack) battalions to carry equipment, weapons and supplies over mountainous terrain.

The most famous of these animals was Hambone, the pride of the 4th Field Artillery for 13 years, he carried first sergeants up Ute Pass to Camp Hale. Camp Hale, located near Leadville, was where the Army conducted cold weather and mountain warfare training. Hambone died in March, 1971, and was buried with full military honors.

Activity at Camp Carson was greatly reduced following the end of World War II. By April, 1946, the military strength at the Mountain Post had dropped to around 600. It appeared Camp Carson would be closed.

With the onset of the Korean War, however, activity once again increased. Many Reserve and National Guard units were called to active duty and stationed at Camp Carson.

Camp Carson became "Fort Carson" in 1954. In the 1960s, mechanized units were assigned to the Mountain Post. At this time, additional training land was purchased, bringing the post to its current size of 140,000 acres. Throughout its history, Fort Carson has been home to nine divisions.

An additional training area, comprising 237,000 acres, was purchased in September, 1983. Named the Piñon Canyon Maneuver Site, this training area is located about 100 miles to the southeast and is used for large force-on-force maneuver training. Comprehensive maneuver and live-fire training also occurs downrange at Fort Carson.

Exercises and deployments continually hone the skill of Fort Carson Soldiers. When not deployed, Soldiers train annually at Piñon Canyon Maneuver Site and the National Training Center at Fort Irwin, Calif.

Additionally, units participate in joint exercises around the world, including Central and South Africa, Europe and Southwest Asia. Since 2003, most Fort Carson units were deployed in support of the Global War on Terrorism.

Throughout its history, Fort Carson Soldiers and units have been active supporting various community events throughout Colorado. Soldiers from the Mountain Post have conducted firefighting missions in the national forests, search and rescue missions throughout the state, and various other emergency operations. The Mountain Post supports more than 350 community events such as parades, concerts and fairs every year.

UNITS

DIVISION WEST, FIRST ARMY

Division West, First Army was activated on Aug. 22, 2006 at Fort Carson, Colorado. Division West is a multi-component, provisional division headquarters capable of coordinating Reserve Component training and mobilization, directing the operations of assigned Training Support Brigades and overseeing Mobilization Stations within the First Army area of responsibility. The mission includes training, readiness oversight and mobilization for U.S. Army Reserve and National Guard units west of the Mississippi, excluding Minnesota.

THE 3RD BRIGADE COMBAT TEAM, 4TH INFANTRY DIVISION

The 3rd Brigade was constituted Nov. 19, 1917, in the Regular Army as Headquarters, 8th Infantry Brigade, an element of the 4th Infantry Division. It was organized in December 1917 at Camp Greene, NC. The Brigade has been reorganized and redesignated several times over the years. Finally, on 15 December 1970, it was activated at Fort Carson, CO, as 3rd Brigade, 4th Infantry Division. When the Division Headquarters moved to Fort Hood, TX, the Brigade was redesignated as 3rd Brigade Combat Team (BCT).

3rd BCT has received numerous campaign participation credits, including Aisne-Marne and Meuse-Argonne during World War I. During Vietnam, 3rd BCT participated in Counteroffensive, Phases II-VI, and Tet Counteroffensive, to name a few. 3rd BCT has received many decorations. A few of the more prestigious decorations include the Presidential Unit Citation, Valorous Unit Award, Republic of Vietnam Cross of Gallantry with Palm, and the Republic of Vietnam Civil Action Honor Medal, First Class.

The 3rd BCT is a self contained, combat ready force of 3,800 soldiers assigned to six battalions and five separate companies. The 3rd BCT consists of two mechanized infantry battalions, a tank battalion, a combat engineer battalion, a field artillery battalion and a forward support battalion. In addition, the brigade is supported by a reconnaissance troop, an air defense battery, a military intelligence company, and a signal company, as well as the brigade headquarters company.

THE 2ND BRIGADE COMBAT TEAM, 2ND INFANTRY DIVISION

The 2nd Infantry Division was activated on October 26, 1917, in Beaumont, France. At the time of its activation, the Indianhead Division was composed of one brigade of U. S. Infantry, (9th and 23rd Regt.) one brigade of U. S. Marines, (5th and 6th Regt) one brigade of artillery and various supporting units. Campaigns included the Battle of Belleau-Wood, Chateau-Thierry campaign, Soissons, Mont Blanc and the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

In World War II the division stormed ashore a bloody Omaha Beach on June 7, 1944, D Day+1. While other units were stalled by determined German resistance, the Indianheads blasted through the hedgerows of Normandy and continued to fight from positions around St. Vith, Belgium, and throughout the Battle of the Bulge. The Division continued to fight the fleeing Wehrmacht until wars end.

At the conclusion of World War II the Division found itself in the states of Washington and Colorado. At these posts the 2nd Infantry Division became proficient in arctic, air transport, mountain, amphibious, and maneuver operations. While stationed at Camp Carson, Colorado and Camp Hale, Colorado every soldier was fully trained for a cold weather war.

As a result of increasing tensions on the Korean Peninsula, the 2nd Infantry Division returned to the Republic of Korea in July 1965. The 2nd Brigade, 2nd Infantry Division stood at the forefront of the Division's defenses, deterring war on the Korean Peninsula with rigorous training, forward presence, and strong partnership with our ROK allies.

On May 18, 2004, the 2nd Brigade received a change of mission order, and was alerted for deployment away from Korea in support of the Global War on Terrorism. Prior to deployment to Operation Iraqi Freedom, the Brigade formed, organized and trained as 2nd Brigade Combat Team, consisting of 6 separate battalions.

From August 2004 to July 2005, with the Brigade Headquarters situated in Ramadi, Iraq, 2BCT fought in areas along the Euphrates River in Al Anbar Province, 70 miles west of Baghdad. During its year-long campaign, 2BCT captured or killed more than 2,100 insurgents and terrorists, helping to establish a more secure environment for the 420,000 Iraqi residents there. Throughout its deployment to Iraq, 2 BCT served under the 1st and 2nd Marine Divisions, and included 1/5 Marines, 2/5 Marines, and 3rd Light Armored Reconnaissance Marine Battalions in the BCT's fighting formation.

Members of 2nd BCT fought in the Fallujah offensive in November 2004 and provided Iraqis the opportunity to vote in the historic national elections of January 2005. They spent the past year helping the citizens of Iraq build a secure future by battling the insurgency and establishing more favorable conditions for the emerging democratic Iraqi government. The 2nd BCT also trained and partnered with thousands of Iraqi Security Force soldiers, enabling them to better secure their country. Additionally, the 2nd BCT provided humanitarian relief to hundreds of displaced civilians, schools, hospitals, and the underprivileged across its area of operations.

In July and August 2005, 2nd BCT redeployed from Iraq and restationed at its new home at Fort Carson. On Nov. 16, 2005, the 2nd BCT officially commenced its transformation to an Infantry Brigade Combat Team under the Army's new modular design.

The 2nd BCT is a self contained, combat ready force of 3,500 soldiers assigned to six battalions. The 2nd BCT consists of two light battalions, a cavalry squadron, an artillery battalion, and two special troop battalions as well as a brigade headquarters.

THE 10TH SPECIAL FORCES GROUP

The 10th Special Forces Group and the history of United States Army Special Forces are intertwined, since the 10th Group is the oldest Special Forces Group in the Army. The establishment of the Group on June 19, 1952, was also the establishment of Special Forces.

The history of the Group begins with the formation of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) under the command of Brigadier General William O. "Wild Bill" Donovan in 1942. Their missions took them behind enemy lines in every theater of operations during World War II. American, British, French, Belgians, Dutch, South Africans, New Zealanders, and Canadians all filled the ranks of the OSS. In France small elements called “Jedburgh teams” were employed to assist the Allied landings and subsequent breakouts at both Normandy and Provence.

The official lineage and colors of the Group go back to the 1st Special Service Force (FSSF), a joint US-Canadian Army force established in 1942, at Ft. William Henry Harrison in Helena, Montana, for the conduct of winter commando-type operations in Europe.

The 10th Special Forces Group is currently assigned to the U.S. Army’s Special Operations Command in Fort Bragg, North Carolina, but stationed at Fort Carson. UNITED STATES ARMY GARRISON

United States Army Garrison is comprised of more than 18 Soldiers and nearly 3,000 civilians who make up the installation activities at Fort Carson. These proud men and women whose duties cover most combat support and combat service support military occupational specialties in the Army provide daily installation support to all units and activities assigned to Fort Carson.

Due to the location of the U.S. Army Training Center at Fort Carson in the early 1960s, Headquarters, Special Troops, USAG, was organized on Aug. 28, 1961. The U.S. Army Training Center transferred to Fort Polk, La., in May, 1962.

TRAINING AREAS

DOWNRANGE AT FORT CARSON

Fort Carson is bounded on the east by Interstate 25 and on the west by Colorado Highway 115. The fort extends from the main post, which is just south of Academy Boulevard, to its southern perimeter, which lies just north of the communities of Pueblo West and Penrose.

All tolled, Fort Carson consists of 137,403 acres including the cantonment area (main post), and training areas downrange. The training areas include a wide variety of different vegetation types. There are open prairies and heavily forested areas. There are lowlands, wetlands and creek drainages as well as mountainous and hilly areas.

Fort Carson can accommodate a wide variety of training including extensive maneuver training (both mounted and dismounted), airborne training and weapons training. Weapons training can include small arms qualification and tank, artillery and helicopter gunnery.

There are two impact areas at Fort Carson - a small impact area (in the north) for small arms; and a large impact area (in the south) which supports artillery, tank, Bradley and other gunnery ranges.

The large impact area can support mortar firing, cannon artillery and even Multiple Launched Rocket System firing.

Tank and Bradley gunnery is typically conducted at Range 109 complex for the preliminary tables and the Multi-Purpose Range Complex for qualification gunnery and advanced firing tables.

Personal and crew served weapons firing (.50 cal and smaller), is usually conducted on a wide variety of ranges encircling the small impact area which is near the main post.

There are 123 training areas and 78 ranges located at Fort Carson, which can support a variety of training. Consult Fort Carson Regulation 385-63 for a complete listing of ranges, training areas and other facilities. Range Control, located in bldg 9550 at the intersection of Butts Field Road and Route 2, can provide complete information on training areas and range use. Call Range Control at 526-5597.

Environmental stewardship of Fort Carson's natural resources is vitally important. The Directorate of Environmental Compliance and Management oversees the management of Fort Carson's training areas and conducts unit instruction and maneuver damage prevention.

DECAM also has a hazardous waste reaction team that is employed if an environmental emergency arises.

For more information regarding environmental protection of Fort Carson resources, contact DECAM at 526-2022/4907.

PIÑON CANYON MANEUVER SITE

In 1983, Fort Carson acquired 235,800 acres of training land on the north side of the Purgatoire River in southeast Colorado.

Called the Piñon Canyon Maneuver Site, this training area is a training site for Fort Carson, located about 150 miles to the southeast.

PCMS can accommodate a full range of maneuver training, including brigade-level, force-on-force maneuvers. No live-fire training is conducted at Piñon Canyon.

Piñon Canyon also provides excellent dismounted maneuver terrain in the rugged canyons and arroyos that empty into the nearby Purgatoire River.

Units have been training at PCMS since 1985, and major training rotations typically have taken place there as units prepare for the National Training Center at Fort Irwin, Calif.

As is the case at Fort Carson, environmental stewardship of the natural resources at PCMS is tremendously important. All Soldiers and units must undergo environmental training prior to using PCMS.

The environmental management of PCMS is unique within the Department of Defense in many respects. Management of the site provides for the continuing balance between military training requirements and resource protection. PCMS has more than 100 archeological or cultural sites, which must be protected by federal statute.

PCMS' resource protection program is divided into six primary areas: the study and protection of wildlife; plant and soil conservation; water quality; the impact of training on cultural and archeological resources; and the effect of sound in the environment.

PCMS provides Fort Carson Soldiers and units a unique training resource. The arid, high desert climate allows for year-round training and wide-open spaces allow battalions and brigades to fully deploy using doctrinal distances.

Units typically transport heavy equipment (tanks and other armored vehicles) by rail to PCMS and conduct convoys with wheeled vehicles. PCMS can also support a full range of aviation training requirements.

Facilities at the training site include a railhead, showers, range control facility, helipad, dirt runway, small shoppette and a vehicle maintenance facility.

SURROUNDING COMMUNITIES

COLORADO HISTORY

What is now called Colorado was originally part of New Spain. The Spanish heritage lingers on in the names of cities and places, particularly in southern Colorado. The Sangre de Cristo Mountains (Blood of Christ Mountains), and Trinidad, named for the Trinity, are examples. Colorado is the Spanish word for "red." The name is taken from the red-colored river, the Colorado. The Spanish heard from the Indians that there was gold in the mountains, but did not search for it. As the Spanish claim became weaker, the area was ceded to France. The French heritage can be traced through names remaining on Colorado maps, such as Lafayette, LaSalle and Louviers, mainly in the northern part of the state.

After the United States purchased the Louisiana Territory from the French in 1803, Lt. Zebulon Pike was sent to explore the new piece of real estate for his country. While in the area, Pike tried and failed to climb the mountain named after him. He reported that no one would ever climb that mountain and that there was a good possibility of gold in the area.

In 1858, settlers from the east were drawn to the area, in search of gold. In 1859, the El Paso Claims Club was formed to establish law and order in the territory. The club also laid out Colorado City and started selling building sites. Colorado City residents made their living off the miners and small settlements in the mountains, selling provisions and entertainment.

COLORADO SPRINGS

Colorado Springs is the second largest city in Colorado and one of the fastest growing cities in the nation. Founded in 1871, by Gen. William Jackson Palmer, the city was planned to attract people of means and social standing, "good moral character and strict temperance habits." Since wide-open town of Colorado City was right next door, with its saloons and "working ladies," the general did not have quite the impact on the Pikes Peak area that he would have liked.

The region prospered when gold was discovered in nearby Cripple Creek in 1891. The Springs became a depository and a favorite residence of those whit new-found wealth.

Following the decline of the Cripple Creek gold fortunes around 1909, the Colorado Springs economy declined. Civic-minded leaders were determined that tourism would be the city's new gold mine. Lead by Spencer Penrose, who built the beautiful Broadmoor Hotel, the city rapidly capitalized on its beauty. Colorado Springs quickly became a resort town.

As tourism declined due to the depression and the beginning of World War II, city leaders again looked for a means to save their beautiful city. This time it was decided that a military camp was the answer. Congress approved the establishment of a camp in 1942, and almost overnight, Colorado Springs had more Soldiers than residents.

That was the end of the city as a sleepy little tourist town and the beginning of the city that has been referred to as the "military hub of the nation." Since Camp Carson was built in 1942, Colorado Springs has become home to Peterson Air Force Base, the United States Air Force Academy, the North American Aerospace Defense Command, Falcon Air Force Base and the Consolidated Space Operations Center. In return, these commands have attracted the country's high-tech industries to the Springs. Colorado Springs' current population is around 387,666.

DENVER

Denver, Colorado's state capital, is about an hour's drive north of Colorado Springs on Interstate 25. Founded in 1858 by Gen. William E. Larimer, the city's fortunes rose and fell with the gold strikes in the nearby Rocky Mountains.

Denver's rise to eminence on the Front Range was a hard fought battle. Cities such as Colorado Springs and Central City bitterly contested the choice of Denver as capital.

The history of Denver is rich in fact and folklore, shaped by a beautiful cast of characters whose names are legends in the west. Madams, like Jennie Rogers, owned the most beautiful residences and miners who struck it rich formed high society. Denver was nourished to maturity by a rapidly growing Rocky Mountain

MANITOU SPRINGS

Before the coming of miners, gamblers, spectators and the like, the area of beautiful rocks, canyons and natural springs, located at the base of Pikes Peak, was sacred to many Indian tribes. The Indians believed that the water had supernatural powers and attributed those powers to the "Manitou." Roughly translated it means "Great Spirit of Natural Phenomena."

The white man believed that the springs had a great power, too, and proceeded to develop the area into a successful health spa. Manitou Springs, in the late 19th century was a leading national spa with the tourist trade as its main source of income. Recently named a historical district, the city's Victorian architecture and rustic charm continues to attract visitors from around the country.

CRIPPLE CREEK/VICTOR

People always knew there was gold in the mountains. That's why so many spent so much time looking for it. But it wasn't until 1890, when a prospector empire. Today, the city consists of a five-county metropolitan area with a population of more than 2 million.

About 500,000 people live within the city limits of Denver. Following a wild beginning when the city's livelihood was based on a strike-it-rich or bust economy, Denver is now the market center of the Rocky Mountain region.

Denver has become a center for music, art, education, sports, outdoor recreation and entertainment in Colorado.

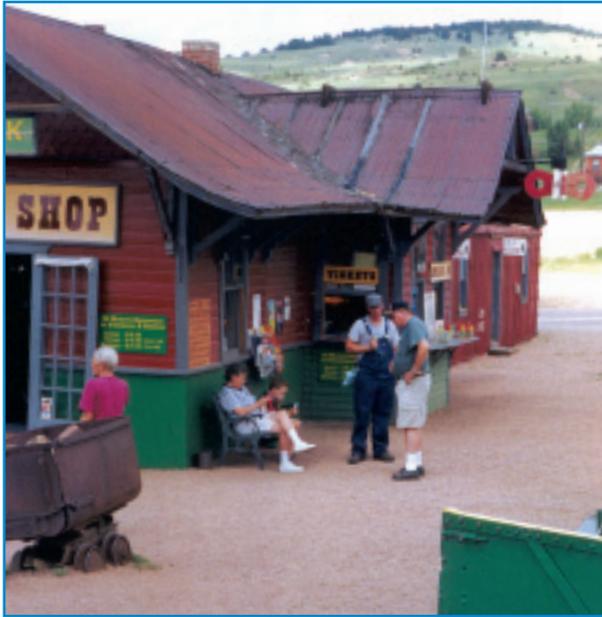

Performing arts, exhibitions and conventions are held in the Denver Coliseum, the National Western Complex and the Denver Center for the Performing Arts.

Denver supports professional basketball, football, baseball, hockey and soccer teams. The Sports Complex off Interstate 25 includes Invesco Field at Mile High Stadium and the Pepsi Center, which hosts other events such as shows and concerts throughout the year.

The Denver Art Museum, Denver Botanic Gardens, Children's Museum, Denver City Park and Zoo, Museum of Natural History, Gates Planetarium, The Denver Mint, Governor's mansion, Pioneer Museum, the National Western Stock Show and the Red Rocks Amphitheater all offer a variety of entertainment for the entire family.

FOUNTAIN

Founded in 1859 and incorporated in 1903, Fountain is the oldest community in the Pikes Peak area. A supply center and refuge for the early settlers, little remains of the original town.

The city, located east of Fort Carson, is a popular choice of residence for people who work at the Mountain Post.

Widefield and Security are two unincorporated communities between Fountain and Colorado Springs. The small town atmosphere and close-in location make these popular areas to live in.

PUEBLO

The city of Pueblo, located 40 miles south of Colorado Springs, takes its name from a fortification built there by fur traders in 1840. The fort was called "El Pueblo."

Today, Pueblo is a highly diversified metropolitan area with a population in excess of 125,000. Pueblo offers a variety of cultural events such as performances by the Pueblo Civic Symphony, City Park band concerts, Broadway Theatre League and the University of Southern Colorado concerts.

For more than 100 years, Pueblo has been the home of the Colorado State Fair. The event attracts close to one million visitors each year. An array of the nation's top entertainers is on hand at each fair. Parimutuel horse racing, rodeo performances, all-American horse show and numerous exhibits delight both young and old.

named Bob Womack made the first big strike in Poverty Gulch that the real gold rush was on. Overnight, 12 towns sprang into existence. Cripple Creek grew from nothing to a population well over 60,000. Everyone wanted gold and was determined to strike it rich.

It's hard to imagine that mad and crazy scramble now. All but two of the towns are gone. As for the mines, the Molly Kathleen and the El Paso, the only two working mines, are still looking for the mother lode.

The rest of the mines have disappeared like the towns. Some of the mines are still open for tours.

Cripple Creek residents have decided that there's gold in "them there tourists and gamblers." Much of the town has been restored and turned into low-stakes gambling casinos. Both visitors and residents have a lot of fun reflecting on the gold rush days.

Victor, the other surviving settlement, is a sleepy, dusty little town near Cripple Creek. On a quiet afternoon, with a little imagination, it is easy to see ghosts of dance hall girls and miners, drifters and storekeepers, all after elusive wealth.

The Cripple Creek-Victor area is still an active mining district. Investors from all over the world have become interested in the renewed exploration and mining activity. Any day now someone could strike it rich and the rush will be on again. After all, there's still gold in those mountains.

CAVE OF THE WINDS

Cave of the Winds is one of America's most spectacular prehistoric natural wonders. The caverns started forming more than 200 million years ago. As time passed, stalactites, stalagmites and other formations formed. The Cave of the Winds was discovered in 1881, when two brothers discovered the cave while on a church picnic.

Tours along the Cave's Discovery Trail are available daily from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the summer, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in winter.

Cave of the Winds also has a spectacular laser light show called "Legends of the Night," which is held after dark each night from May 1 through Labor Day weekend. The show uses the cliff faces as a screen to project upon.

The cave is the highest in the world open to the public. Cave of the Winds is open year round and is located four miles west of Colorado Springs on U.S. Highway 24 near Manitou Springs. Call 685-5444 for more information.

FEDERAL TELEPHONE SYSTEM 2001 (FTS-2001)

FTS-2001 is a GSA procured service designed to provide official long distance for all government locations. The FTS network allows calls to all locations in the U.S. (CONUS) and includes areas such as Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, and U.S. Virgin Islands. Overseas calls, including Canada and Mexico, still have to go through the base operator and require a control number. Calls to Global (Overseas) Areas General purpose DISN users cannot direct-dial numbers to the Global Area, except Alaska, through the Fort Carson MSL 100 telephone system. To place Global DISN calls, users must place their calls through the Fort Carson operator using a control number. To get a control number, contact your unit, organization, activity or section's Telephone Control Officer.

NUISANCE CALLS

Malicious, threatening, abusive, indecent, annoyance, or harassing telephone calls, including those in which obscene or profane language is used are prohibited by state and federal laws. Any person making such calls or any person knowingly permitting any telephone under his control to be used for such a purpose may be subject to criminal or civil prosecution by the person called or may have their service disconnected. Those receiving calls of this type should hang up immediately.

If the calls persist, contact the Military Police. This applies to government and commercial subscribers.

DEFENSE INFORMATION SYSTEMS NETWORK (DISN)

The Defense Information Systems Network is the long haul voice communications network within the Defense Communications System. It provides unsecured, direct distance dialing service worldwide. DISN is primarily used for essential command and control, intelligence, logistics and diplomatic traffic. The Joint Uniform Telephone Communications Precedence System is directed for use by all authorized users of voice communications facilities of the Department of Defense. To use DISN effectively, users must be familiar with the purpose of each precedence category and the types of calls.

MINIMIZE

MINIMIZE is a condition that a commander or other authority may impose on users of telecommunications systems in an emergency or exercise. The aim is to limit the volume of routine traffic in the communications systems and ensure the flow of traffic. Essential traffic is that which deals directly with the success of the mission or safety of life. The telephone precedence system has no bearing in determining whether a telephone call should or should not be placed. Responsibility for determining if a call is to be placed rest with the calling party and is based on the perishability of the subject matter to be discussed. Calling parties must state that the call is minimize considered along with the precedence or other calling information when requested.

TELEPHONE COMMUNICATIONS PRECEDENCE SYSTEM

The Joint Chiefs of Staff has developed and approved a telephone communications precedence system to ensure calls through the Defense Information Systems Network (DISN) system receive a level of service relative to their significance. The precedence levels are FLASH, IMMEDIATE, PRIORITY AND ROUTINE. DISN users are required by USA directives to use the lowest precedence consistent with the operational mission or necessity of the call. Assignment or use of a precedence designation based solely on rank or duty position is strictly prohibited.

PRIORITY:

Reserved for calls that require prompt completion for national defense and security, the successful conduct of war or to safeguard life or property, which do not require higher precedence. Normally, priority will be the highest precedence that may be assigned to administrative matters for which speed of handling is of paramount importance.

FLASH:

Reserved for alerts, warning, or other emergency actions having immediate bearing on national, command or area security. May be preempted by the application of the FLASH OVERRIDE capability available to National Command Authorities.

IMMEDIATE:

Reserved for vital communications which:

- (1) have an immediate operational effect on tactical operations,
- (2) directly concern safety or rescue operations, or
- (3) affect the intelligence community operational role.

PRE-EMPTION

Whenever a DSN call is "interrupted" by a sleddy tone (higher pitch than the dial tone), your call has been automatically pre-empted by a higher precedence calls.

PHONETIC ALPHABET

For clarity in telephone conversations it may be necessary to identify single spoken letters through the use of the phonetic alphabet as follows:

A - AlphaN - November
B - BravoO - Oscar
C - CharlieP - Papa
D - Delta.....Q- Quebec
E - EchoR- Romeo
